

Working with scale

- The three graphs represent the same information. Explain why they look so different.
- Which graph might be used to:
 - argue for the need for redundancies at the college
 - include in a college brochure
- Give another context in which graph A could give a false impression of the facts
- Give another context in which graph C could give a false impression of the facts